Malcolm Mitchell, born July 20, 1993 in Georgia, is an author, poet, and former NFL football player. He played wide receiver for the 2017 Superbowl champions, the New England Patriots. In college he played at the University of Georgia, where he was one of the top wide receivers in their program history.

When Malcolm went off to college, he quickly realized he was not a strong reader. Reading was always a struggle for him, but once he decided he would practice reading as much as he did football, his skill began to improve. At the age of 23, he wrote his first children's book, The Magician's Hat. My Very Favorite Book in the Whole Wide World is Malcom's second book.

In 2019 he retired from the NFL and started Read with Malcolm, a non-profit focused on helping kids improve their reading. He currently lives in Atlanta, Georgia with his wife and daughter Oakley.
